

Levisa Key: A Marine Site Full of Magic

Category: Tourism

Published: Wednesday, 08 May 2019 15:51

Written by Ivania Díaz

Hits: 2671

In all these ecosystems, after the beach profile, the bottom precipitates into abysmal depths where there are internationally recognized diving zones; it is a world to observe different types of corals, espeluncas, sand cascades, shipwrecks of wrecks from the 15th century until today.

One of these paradisiacal marine sites is Cayo Levisa. Accessing by sea, one and a half kilometers from Palma Rubia on the north coast, located forty-five kilometers from Viñales, has a beach three kilometers long, there are another five kilometers of low bottoms on the island platform, with depths between three and six meters. The invitation to dive allows you to receive initiation and practice courses in a total of 23 sites on the island platform. Vegetable and coral formations such as star coral (Montastrea anularis), cacho e venao (Acropora cervicornis) and sea fans (Gorgonia ventalina) stand out. In the song of the veril the walls reach up to 40 meters, fascinating to submerge in the practice of snorkeling in the coral reef, or nautical sports.